PEACEFUL PETITION

"With Threat of Violence." To the best of anyone's memory, a lone Princetonian, Humbert Bartilone, joined the World War I veterans' bonus march on Washington in the poverty-ridden days of July 1932.

Yet, six buses carrying 250 Princeton area residents departed for Wednesday's civil rights demonstration at the Lincoln Memorial. Princeton clergy put their full prestige behind the move.

Why did these Princeton citizens go? Can such a demonstration influence Congress? Many Princetonians pon-the community leaders agreed that "it is hard to give an unbiased appraisal."

Physical Action. Historian Shaw Livermore commented that such a march is "peaceable, but always with the threat of violence." It lies between the classic form of peaceful request, the petition, and the revolutionary form.

"Direct action is a form of violence," he said. "If you interpose your person between a truck and a gate — it is a form of violence... The march in Washington is part of a larger technique. You get up and you do something, such as marching, picketing, sit-in. This form is going to be used again and again."

He added somberly, "It's dangerous. I feel in my bones that if one person gets killed during an integration activity, there will be big trouble. Medgar Evers was one. You never know when one of these may become the martyr of the decade."

Maurice Phillips, a clinical psychologist, commented, "Most people feel a need to participate actively in some great movement — to be a part of history. The occasions for this, for most people, are comparatively rare."

Several of the "marchers" expressed this view. William C. Dwyer, 321 State Road, said, "This is a history-making event and I want to be in on it, and be a part of it. This is my public stand on the situation. I believe that the Negroes have a justified complaint that they are not being treated as American citizens and this march is something I can do about it."

"This is one of the great events of the century," said Mrs. E. Harris Harrison, "and I'd like to be a part of it."

Professor Livermore adds, "The march is almost intoxicating for many people. They have lived out their lives without taking direct action on anything. The people who have had no power in our society have found that they have every power — if they go about it properly."

A churchman, the Rev. Dr. William Tucker, pastor emeritus of Second Presbyterian Church, believes "a great many people in the church want to participate in the march because it is mass, peaceful petition."

And attorney Bryan Moore, who serves on the Borough School and Planning Boards, said, "This is something that the people have a right to do — to express their feeling. I agree with President Kennedy that this is in the great tradition."

The Pay-Off. Nobody can tell, according to historian Livermore, whether or not peaceful petition does any good.

"Yet in successful reform movements, direct action has played a key role. In 1919 the suffragettes chained themselves. The Detroit auto workers in 1937 forced General Motors to agree to recognize the union — through the medium of sit-down strikes. "And there is a sympathetic Federal government — same as in 1937, when the Marlin and Federal governments were known to be in accord. The strikers knew that the trespassing of the sit-down was illegal, but they also knew they would not be mistreated by the government."

The same was not true for Humbert Baritone in 1932. The veterans' buses for a $1,000 bonus were smashed by the Senate. The remnants of their army were burned out in Washington by Federal cavalry and tanks.

But the veterans' bill had passed the House. "Practical politicians listen to this kind of thing," Mr. Laverne said. "But you never know when dealing with Congress in the mass how they're going to jump. I don't believe that the march is going to be directly effective. The congressman is going to ask, 'How many people almost came?'"

Mass movements, however, come from a desperate situation where there doesn't seem to be any other kind of relief. Mr. Phillips points out: "The emphasis here is that the Negroes are acting on their belief that there is no other form of relief than through demonstrations of this kind. It is out of a feeling of desperation."

A Princeton researcher noted last week that public opinion is 4-1 against the march in Washington as a lobbying tool.

The Middle Atlantic states, which fielded the most demonstrators, record nearly as strongly as those in the south and the rest of the north that the march is not the way to go about it.

Mr. Phillips noted that people with a labor background are more likely to accept this means of demonstration. "But many families in the various sub-cultures abhor this method of calling attention to the needs of one particular group. There is also resistance to upward mobility. Ideally, there should be a steady lessening of this continuing power play among groups."

Nobody took a poll of Princeton on the subject. But in this, a non-labor town, 250 people rode the six buses. Organizers of the march here had originally chartered only one bus.

"Why, I hadn't ever thought of NOT going," said George Alexander, 857 State Road. "There's really so little one individual can do, stew and fume and curse and send a check to some civil rights organization, but this doesn't really help anybody. Seems to me there comes a time when you have to stand up and be counted. It seems the least one can do." "There comes a time..." is a recurring refrain among the Princeton travelers on the buses.

"I'll Tell My Children." "There's a time to stand up for what one believes and make it known," stated Mrs. Rowan Boone, 31 Greenhouse Drive. "I don't belong to any church, but I feel strongly about the brotherhood of man and I think it's time we all worked together to make this a better democracy. The march was planned, well, that means the call is here and am I ready to answer it, and the answer is 'yes'."

"Besides," Mrs. Boone added, "maybe in the future, it will mean something to my kids that I went."

"It is a way to show that you believe in the brotherhood of man under the fatherhood of God," said Miss Braxton Preston, 105 Mercer. "It seems to me very important to show that among those who protest codified, planned injustices are not only Negro Americans but white Americans also, white Americans who are repentant and concerned. I am a native of Virginia, a wonderful state, and I'm proud of it!"

"I don't agree with all the aspects of the march, but I want to be counted on the side of those who go, and not on the side of those who oppose." The speaker, Mrs. Robert H. Silliman, 408-B Butler, is a sixth grade teacher at Dutch Neck School.

"I believe very strongly," she continued, "that all men are equal in the sight of God, and this is my main motivation for going on the march. For me, the march is a symbol of the hopes of many Americans that we can work for greater opportunities — legislation — is one of the things we can do."

Mrs. Silliman added that she had ancestors who fought on the Union side in the Civil War, "but they never finished the fight — maybe that's another reason I'm going."

The Hard Part. Legislation may be "one of the things we can do," but the tough part of the president's civil rights bill is to make owners of businesses accommodate people without respect to race, according to Professor Livermore.

"There is the 'as long as it won't next to me' point of view," he said. "But I don't see that the 'anti' side is going to come up with anything attractive to the majority of Americans."

"Hidden segregation is going to take a long time to overcome," the historian continued, "but regardless of what anybody says you CAN legislate morally. In the 18th century, a husband treated his wife as he pleased, but we have legislated full female rights and our attitude is entirely different from, say, the Middle East."

"Homicide is also a moral question. In Sicily or Corsica you will find there are some categories of justified homicide that we don't accept in this country. At a time a law is passed, a lot don't agree, say 20 percent. There are bruised feelings."

"In ten years, I would guess all forms of formal and semi-formal segregation will be eliminated. There are great psychological benefits from such a movement — and hurts to others. But one of the functions of the law is to indicate the universal moral standard."

"The government is also asking 'where are we going to go?' Do we achieve desegregation motel by motel, lunch counter by lunch counter? The point is whether you have a right to pass a law. And can you formally legislate semi-public institutions such as the unions? When the unions exclude Negroes, is it a public or private act?"

Other moral laws the commentators noted included Nineteenth Century child labor legislation.

The Clergy. By and large, according to Professor Malcolm Diamond of Princeton University's department of religion, "the churches have in the past seen the moral issue."

CITED FOR NURSING EXCELLENCE: Diane K. Murphy of Hopewell receives the Faculty Award of Princeton Hospital's School of Practical Nursing from John W. Kauffman, Hospital administrator. A Princeton High School graduate in 1962, Miss Murphy held the Soroptimist scholarship and gained her award for excellence in bedside nursing. The 18 members of the September 1963 class marked the completion of their training with a breakfast at the Nassau Inn and will graduate formally in February with the succeeding class. Another member of the class from the Princeton area is Mrs. Virginia B. Harvey of Pennington, a graduate of Miss Fine's School.

THE DOLLAR GO-ROUND

For a New School. The fundraising plan for a new elementary school goes to Borough Council and the State Commissioner of Education this week. A public vote is slated for October 15.

The proposal was formally drawn up at Tuesday's meeting of the Board of Education. Deau Elmer G. Homrighausen presided in the absence of board president Graham Rohrer.

The board sets a ceiling of $2,328,000 for construction, furnishings, equipment and land improvement. (In a light turn-out last September 25, Borough residents approved the expenditure of $172,000 for 15 1/4 acres on Walnut Lane, across from the high school athletic fields. These bonds have not been issued.)

The board has a three-part plan to raise funds:

1. To issue school bonds in the amount of $1,278,000. The bonds, at maturity date 25 years from now, will require $849,114 in interest at an estimated three percent.

2. To sell Nassau Street School and Witherspoon School, applying the proceeds to financing the new school.

As a safety provision, to issue short-term bonds in an amount not exceeding $650,000. William K. Evans, a board member, noted, "This is to give us working room, in case we need it, if there is a time differential between the sale of the schools and the new building needs."

3. To raise $400,000 by revising the schools' fiscal year to match the Borough's calendar year. (By the end of 1963, the Borough will have collected taxes for the school year 1963-64, or six months in advance.)

The board notes in its proposal that the long and short-term bonds of the school district use up all of the $526,688.55 borrowing margin of the Borough available for municipal improvements. They raise Borough debt to $1,165,906.77 beyond the margin, but they do not prevent the Borough from issuing bonds for public needs.

according to New Jersey law. According to School Superintendent Chester Strong, "Within five years, our auditor says, we'll be back within our legal limits."

CHRISTMAS IN AUGUST

Family Celebrates Early. Last Sunday the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Montgomery in Hopewell was all bedecked for a Christmas party. Surprised passers-by gaped at the sight: Santa Claus, a snowman and a Christmas tree with lights on the lawn — everything but snow.

The date, to be sure, was August 25, four months ahead of the traditional day, but the Montgomerys explained that they just liked the idea of a Christmas party on the lawn. "Besides," they added, "our house isn't big enough to hold 30 people and a keg of beer in December, so we set up the decorations and called in our friends."

"Our two children are only two months and 16 months old," said Mrs. Montgomery, "so they couldn't very well object." Mr. Montgomery, an employee of the Princeton University Store, is the son of Princeton lawyer J. Seymour Montgomery.

On December 25 the Montgomery family will celebrate Christmas in the traditional manner, just for the family. Until then, the Montgomerys wish is: Merry Christmas and a Happy Football Season.

857 CALLS

By First Aid Squad. The Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad made a total of 857 calls last year, 101 of which were trips outside Princeton, according to a recent announcement of its activities. Members of the volunteer organization contributed 3,071 hours of time in 1962 and travelled 10,415 miles in line of duty.

To date, $67,000 of the necessary $70,000 has been donated towards the new headquarters on Harrison Street North and Clearview Avenue. There are accommodations in the new building to house an on-duty crew each night for emergency calls.

The squad has announced that its annual drive for operating expenses will begin on September 9. Since the squad's services are absolutely free, the group depends on donations from people in the Princeton area for its support. Donations, which are fully tax deductible, should be sent to: Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, Inc., P.O. Box 529, Princeton.

HOW ABOUT AMERICA?

First Princeton, then College. Dipping a toe into the stream of American life, five students from abroad have been living in Princeton for the past few days, learning American ways before going on to various colleges.

The students come from Nigeria, Sweden, Ethiopia, Iran and India, and will be studying at Manhattan College, Davidson College, Douglass, New York University, the University of Kentucky and the University of Pennsylvania.

SALAD WITH AN INTERNATIONAL FLAVOR: Six College students from five different countries have been living in Princeton homes for the past few days to get the feel of American life before they go on to the colleges where they will study. Field trips and social events are all part of the schedule to show them "How America lives." Here, at the home of John Borden, 160 Hodge Road, Augustine Nwabuzov of Nigeria, second from right, learns how to make an American salad for an American cook-out. David Hogenauer, Bill Harbison and Linda Almgen, Princetonians all, are the instructors. (Staff Photo) ton, they are making their homes with Princeton families, learning how American men treat their wives, how American children behave (if they do), why American teenagers stay on the phone all the time, how American families feel about the Common Market, Civil Rights, the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty and the possible future of the Mets.

Under the leadership of David Hogenauer and Mrs. William Duryea and the student co-ordinator, Linda Almgen, the visitors have also gone outside the American living-room and kitchen to see how things run.

Swim, Tour, Observe. Besides the swim-cook-out at the John Borden's (see photo), students had a tour of Princeton University and Forrestal Labs. They went to a farm, met a farmer and heard a talk about conservation practices in the Mercer County area. They visited a Trenton court-room to see American justice, and they plan to visit Valley Road and Princeton High School to see American education.

A varied group, they have interests ranging from poultry farming (that's the young man from India) to baseball (that's the Nigerian) to basketball (he's from Iran) to movies (he's from Ethiopia).

Their Princeton host families are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Suber, John Borden, Gibson Dailey, Henry Perrine, Amasa Bishop and M.L. White.

College students living in Princeton who assisted with the entertainment at the Borden's are Barbara Alden (Swarthmore), Miss Almgen (Wellesley), John Counts (Tuskegee), Eve Gardner (New York University), Bill Harbison (Oberlin), James Thorpe (Swarthmore), Kathy Weimer (Jackson), Edith Wilkinson (Barnard) and Frances Sherr, Jay Perrine and Jeff Graf.

The visits in Princeton are arranged through Mr. Hogenauer, Mrs. Duryea and the Experiment in International Living, Putney, Vermont. Families interested in serving as hosts next summer may make reservations with either Mr. Hogenauer or Mrs. Duryea.

"... A STEP TOWARD SECURITY." How does the man in the street feel about the Test Ban Treaty with Russia? Professor Joseph Brown, sculptor in residence in Princeton University, who is shown with his mammoth work, "Dropped—Antaeus, 1951," echoes the sentiments of many in calling the pact a "Step toward security." Other opinions, below.

Question of the Week

Question: What is your opinion of the proposed Nuclear Test Ban Agreement with Russia?

Where asked: Around town

Joseph Brown, 34 Edwards Place, Princeton University professor and sculptor in Residence and one of 65 members of the Princeton Area Faculty Group on Public Issues which issued a statement supporting the proposed limited test ban agreement. I feel that it is a step toward security. I don't think it will solve all our problems but it is at least a beginning. At least it indicates that we are willing to face this problem. I think it was Adlai Stevenson who said in his last campaign that it was not enough to know how to stand up to Russians; we have to know how to sit down with them as well.

Pierre Laszlo, 120 Prospect Avenue, research associate for Princeton University's Department of Chemistry: I would certainly approve it and I rejoice that so many countries have already signed the treaty. As a Frenchman, I am sorry that my country did not sign. I feel it is a first measure that should be followed by others, that is, real disarmament. But even this first small measure, may save lives of children all over the world.

Peter Rogers, Graduate College, graduate student, physics. I think it is a chance we should take. We don't know what's really happening and how conditions really are. The public, certainly, can't know all the facts surrounding the treaty. We only know what the government will let us know. It's unfortunate but that's how things are. However, what has been released in testimony from government and military experts has convinced me that whatever the risks, they are well worth taking.

Mrs. Bud Everitt, Cherry Brook Road, Hopewell, artist. I feel it was necessary to come to some sort of agreement. Although it isn't completely satisfactory, I think it was the best we could get and it is better than no treaty at all. I listened to a program on TV and I agree with those who say there are some questions about it which must be answered first, but I also heard Ambassador Kennan, who convinced me that this is the right thing.

Question Of The Week

to do and that it is in the best interests of the United States.

Warren Rossi, Perth Amboy, truck driver: As far as defenses go, I don't think it will make any difference at all. If it had,
I don't think anybody would have conceded to it. They haven't stopped underground testing under the treaty, according to the papers, and I feel both the U.S. and Russia have done all the testing they need above ground. I think the whole main feature of the treaty is to prevent China from getting the bomb. Russia is more afraid of China than they are of us.

Miss Alice Kane, 293A
Franklin Avenue, secretary: I think it's a beginning. And for this reason I think it is worthwhile.

Joseph Shifty, 22 Quarry Street, construction worker: I think it will help. I think it will make it harder for the Russians to develop their nuclear weapons any further.
They're supposed to be way ahead of us in the development and testing of super bombs, anyway. I say you have to keep your eye on them.

Mrs. Margaret Obert, 162 Jefferson Road, nurse: Whether it is good or bad, I don't know. I only know that Teddy Roosevelt had some good advice when he said, 'Speak softly, but carry a big stick'. Our big stick is an adequate nuclear defense. I think that Russia understands only strength. And if we weaken our defenses, it adds up to appeasement for them. Why give it to them? They threaten to take it any way. If we don't keep our defenses ahead of them, we'll be a sitting duck.
They aren't apt to give us anything, that's for sure.

Bruce Kezer, Boston traveler for McGraw Hill: I think it is very worthwhile. It's one of those things that no one, of course, has had time to analyze. You always have to have reservations on just how these things will work out in actual practice but just having a signature on a piece of paper is a good start.

Mrs. Sonia Hatrak, Trenton, secretary-receptionist for N.J.
Bankers' Association, Harrison Street: I think it is a fine idea but our leaders are dealing with the wrong people if they are looking for integrity and faith. I don't think the Russians will live up to it. I think it's just a pose on their part.
What they say and what they do are two different things.

Noshi Botros, 44 Alexander Street, graduate student, school of business: I think it is very good thing. Anything that prevents war is good and I feel the treaty will help accomplish this.

Richard Hargrave, 99 Red Hill Road, engineer: I'm inclined to think it's a very good thing. To me, it seems to be a sincere step in the right direction. It may not be the best agreement in the world — I can see some of the arguments of the cons — but there seems to be sufficient support for it from technical experts that makes a layman like me not worry about it. Certainly the Senate has had the benefit of good technical advice.

Mrs. Jennie K. Caruso, 182
Snowden Lane, self-employed tailor: It may be good, it may be bad; I don't know. But I'm sure if we have trust in one another, I'm sure if we have faith in them, they'll cooperate.
I have faith that the Russians will cooperate some day. If they are stubborn, eventually they'll give in. I have great hope in this.

Manfred Rost, 644 Kingston
Road, specialist for Princeton Accelerator: I feel it's a very good measure, a step toward peace and understanding. I feel we have more in common than friction points. If we were heading toward a conflict, it would be preferable to settle our differences peacefully, of course. The treaty is a step in this direction, definitely. After all, all the issues can be settled

Mutiny on the Bounty (now playing). Back in 1788 H.M.S. Bounty upped anchor and sailed off on what should have been a pretty routine assignment: to pick up some breadfruit trees at Tahiti and lug them to Jamaica. But, because of the limitless cruelty of the ship's c.o., Captain Bligh, it turned out to be anything but routine.

Eventually, fed to the scuppers with Bligh's methods for running a taut ship, Officer Fletcher Christian and some of the crew mutinied, kicked Bligh and his buddies off the Bounty in a long-boat, and took the ship to Pitcairn Island. What followed is British admiralty and Hollywood movie history.

In 1935, Clark Gable and Charles Laughton put on a remarkable duel as the noble Mr. Christian and the evil Captain Bligh. The present voyage is taken by Marlon Brando and Trevor Howard, and the result is, in the main, an impressive document of life (and death) on a great sailing ship.

The up-dated account of the Bounty's adventures and misadventures turned out to be, as you probably know, the most expensive cruise ever made. It took nearly $19 million dollars, two directors, 12 scriptwriters and one year to complete; and the well-publicized mutinies of the Brando frequently threatened to scuttle the whole re-investigation into the mutiny on the Bounty.

While you'll probably find that the conflict in the story is not too convincingly stated or portrayed, about three-quarters of the time Bounty sails along at a pretty good clip. If you can take Brando as a kind of nautical Hamlet, and if you can spend three hours in a Garden deck chair without complaining you'll see a spectacular, beautifully photographed seascape, albeit at times slow and overlong.

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE

The Thrill of It All (now showing) might have been more accurately called "The Thrill of It All." A 99 and 44 100's per cent pure soap opera, it floats in a tubful of bathos, one of those situation comedies which H'wood calls an "hilarious laff riot." You know, Manny, a comedy with all the subtlety of TV's own (they should keep him) Bert.

LITHGOW STARS AT McCARTER: Arthur Lithgow will take over this fall as executive director of McCarter Theatre, having served in past seasons as associate producer and educational co-ordinator. For 10 years an associate professor of English at Antioch College, he has been a producer and director of Shakespeare Festivals at Antioch, Toledo, Akron and Lakewood, Ohio.

Parks — for the Topeka, Kansas, housewife trade.

It details, among other minutiae, what is surely the fanciest premature delivery ever — an obstetrical horror, perhaps, but a movie maker's delight. Arlene Francis, on maternity leave from "What's My Line?", produces an offspring in the back seat of a Rolls-Royce which is stuck in a New York traffic jam.

Lithgow Succeeds Lyon

Arthur W. Lithgow, associate producer and educational coordinator at McCarter Theatre, has succeeded Milton Lyon as the theatre's executive producer. Mr. Lyon will continue to direct the Triangle shows and act as advisor to McCarter.

Mr. Lithgow is currently producer of the Great Lakes Shakespeare Festival, Lakewood, O., and was founder-director of the Antioch, Toledo and Akron festivals in Ohio.

Mr. Lyon's resignation as executive producer was accepted "with great regret" by Prof. Francis R.B. Godolphin, chairman of the faculty committee on McCarter. Prof. Godolphin said, "Mr. Lyon's vision and concern over the past three years have been of vital importance to the growth and development of the McCarter program and place it has come to hold in the life of the community."

The spavined horseplay in "Thrill" may please the young. It may also delight to those who love Lawrence Welk troupe as the country's finest orchestral group and Mitch Miller's chorus as the world's most ethereal choir. Others can stay home.

BRASSY, EXHILARATING!
"Pajama Game" Up-river. Love can find a way, even in a pajama factory.

From this unshakable premise, "Pajama Game" leaps exuberantly onto the stage of the Lambertville Music Circus riding an assembly line of songs like "Hernando's Hide-away," "Hey, There," "Steam Heat," "Once a Year Day" and "Think of the Time I Save." It will play through Sunday.

Concerned profoundly with the romance between a new plant superintendent and a union-minded factory girl, "Pajama Game" is uproariously proud of being socially insignificant and theatrically magnificent.

Dizzy Gillespie will take over on Labor Day for a Monday night jazz special, and the Modern Jazz Quartet will play Friday, September 13. The Brothers Four have been booked for September 14 and the Chad Mitchell Trio on September 15, closing night for the big tent.

MARIONETTES TO "SING"
Haydn and Mozart Opera. The first American performance of a rare marionette opera, "Philemon and Baucis" by Haydn will be given this weekend at the Sundance Festival of the Arts in Upper Black Eddy, Pa.

Sharing the double bill will be a marionette performance of Mozart's well-loved "Bastien and Bastienne." Music and "singspiel" has been taped for the marionette performance.

The two operas will be given this Friday and Saturday at 8:30 and this Sunday at 2:30. Reservations may be made by calling 215-847-5305.

Wolfgang Zuckermann, producer for Sundance, has announced an anonymous gift of $100 to the Festival. "An enterprise such as Sundance, devoted to the very best in the arts and catering to a small and select audience, must of necessity look to some of that audience for its support," said Mr. Zuckermann in announcing the donation.

LABOR DAY OPENING
At Bucks County, Henry Morgan, television and radio luminary, will make his first appearance at the Bucks County Playhouse with the starring role in Jean Kerr's family comedy, "King of Hearts." This production, which will close the Playhouse's 10-play 1963 season, will open Labor Day evening at 8:30 and will continue through Saturday, September 14.

Morgan will portray the character Larry Larkin, a miraculously successful cartoonist of children. Larkin has one problem: he doesn't like children, nor even attempts to understand them. His life (and the plot) become complicated when he finds that for the sake of appearances he must adopt a child.

RADIO-TV STAR: Henry Morgan will be the featured performer at the Bucks County Playhouse in Jean Kerr's "King of Hearts," which opens Labor Day evening for a 10-day run.

"King of Hearts" will be the second Jean Kerr play of the summer at the Playhouse. Miss Kerr, author of the long-running Broadway comedy, "Mary, Mary," is the wife of Walter Kerr, drama critic of the "New York Herald Tribune" and a Princeton University lecturer in recent years.

MOSCOW CIRCUS
In Philadelphia. The Soviet Union's famed "Big Top," the Moscow State Circus, featuring Valentin Filatov's trained bears, soccer-playing Bulldogs and the Cossack Riders, will play the Philadelphia Arena, September 12 through 22. Evening performances, Tuesdays through Fridays during the 10-day stand, will be at 8:30. Saturday performances have been scheduled for 1 p.m., 5:00 p.m. and 8:30 p.m., with Sunday shows at 2 and 6:00 p.m.

BOYCHOIR TO TOUR
In "School on Wheels." The Columbus Boychoir School will present Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem" five times on its fall concert tour. The boys will travel in their "schoolhouse on wheels," a bus designed so that they can continue their studies while on tour. Donald T. Bryant, headmaster, and two teachers will accompany the boys.

Three performances of the Requiem will be given in Symphony Hall, Boston, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Eric Leinsdorf. The other two are scheduled for Philharmonic Hall, New York City.

The Boychoir will begin its 24th year on Sunday, September 8, with a capacity enrollment. Dormitory construction is scheduled for completion by that date. All classrooms and the dining room will have new furnishings.

Mrs. Albert Kohnt of Belle Mead will join the staff as nurse. Her son, Christopher, will be in the fifth grade at the school. She is a graduate of St. Peter's School of Nursing in New Brunswick.

The new dean of students is John Randolph of Bristol, W. Va., who has taught at Huntington High School, W. Va., and the Army Dependent School System, Leghorn, Italy. He is a graduate of Salem College, W. Va.

... IT'S ONLY THE BUG THAT'S GOING AROUND: Dr. James Garner uses his best bedside manner on Doris Day in "The Thrill of It All," now at the Prince and Playhouse.

JUMP RIGHT IN

"A" Line Will Pull You Out. Not wearing a jumper this fall? My dear. The Clothes Line on Palmer Square moves into the line, and so will you, too, wearing an orange-gold-brown wool tweed jumper with V-neck and optional sash.

Carried in reserve is an olive suede cloth, unadorned and waiting for your favorite print blouse and dull gold pin. A pinwale corduroy has something interesting: a leather "belt" about six inches long, low on each hip, with front and back free and beltless.

Conservatives who shy away from a really truly jumper will probably settle for a jumper-dress with pleated skirt, plain top and nice big patch pockets.

Skirts are "A" line at the C. Line. The wrap-around, which has an "A" line by the very nature of things, appears in a handsome royal corduroy lined with a beige and blue toile print which makes it reversible. A matching print blouse makes it an ensemble.

An "A" suede cloth skirt goes below a round necked Chanel jacket, both executed in the warmest fall shades of rust or olive, colors to make you sigh for those winy October days that are ahead.

Another wrap skirt has a different outlook. This one is wool check in steel, beige and rust with a single touch of leather at one side of the skirt band for a "belt" and a single wrap-style patch pocket to balance on the other side.

QUEEN ANNE HAD NICE LEGS: Leonard LaPlaca and Vincent Sassman of Nassau Interiors check out a Queen Anne wing chair which has just arrived to join the "James River" Collection of authentic Colonial reproductions. More about James River in "It's New to Us."

With it, Clothes Line shows a mohair and wool cardigan in French blue with raglan sleeves, and a diamond stitch on both sides of the button row. (This color appears frequently, by the way, and we can only say that it's blue with a green air about it, and almost the deepness of royal. Oh, forget it, and go see for yourself!)

Anyway, sweaters are the hottest thing at The Clothes Line this fall, and Shetlands. These are real Shetlands in heathery greens or solid olive greens, a splendidly ripe cranberry or a seductive watermelon pink. And there's cranberry again with a heathery tone. Cardigans all, at $14.95.

Ireland sends along mohair and wool in gold, olive or red for $19.95 and Italy, always furiously knitting, has mohair pullovers and cardigans at $14.95 and $17.95. We like a V-neck bulky mohair in a light-dark grey that looks exactly like herringbone.

Shetland-style cardigans, beloved for years by Clothes Line customers, are $10.95. By the way, if your family name is Black Watch, you'll want the navy Shetland cardigan with Black Watch ribbon.

All the tops of chests and desks are "walnut" vinyl so that a spilled drink or an upset cup of hot coffee is merely a shrug. Can you think of anything better for children's rooms?

sity. Rutgers and the Institute for Advanced Study and other community leaders has advocated that the United States "seize this opportunity to take a first, tentative step toward sanity."

At the same time, United States Senator Harrison A. Williams of New Jersey has announced the first results of a state-wide poll he has been taking on the test ban proposal. With approximately 1,200 replies on hand at the end of the first ten days, Senator Williams reported that the count is running about seven to one in favor of the ban.

The Senator, who made a special appeal for the views of New Jersey residents on the issue in his newsletter to constituents, said that responses are coming in at a rate of more than 100 a day. While initial results are running almost seven to one in favor of the treaty, he expected that the final ratio would level off at closer to a six to one margin.

Despite the strongly favorable expression of opinion toward the treaty, the replies also show a strong undercurrent of distrust of the Soviet Union, according to Senator Williams. The answers, he reports, mainly reflect "a deep hunger for peace and an easing of international tensions, and the test ban represents a symbol of the first, faint progress toward that goal."

The statement by the Princeton Area Faculty Group on Public Issues, signed by 65 individuals, was forwarded to both United States Senators from New Jersey, Mr. Williams and Clifford P. Case. Ratification of the test ban treaty requires approval by two-thirds of the Senate.

The statement by the Princeton group follows:
"In considering the ratification of the proposed partial test ban treaty the United States Senators have the serious responsibility of convincing themselves that the military strength of the U.S. will not be placed in jeopardy by such ratification."

"We have been assured by President Kennedy and Secretary McNamara that our current military strength is greater than that of the Soviet Union, both as to numbers of nuclear weapons and numbers of missiles and bombers. It is extremely unlikely that the Soviet Union can seriously change this balance of power by carrying out clandestine weapons tests. It is of crucial importance to remember that in thermonuclear war small differences of strength mean very little."
"The test ban treaty by no means implies that our research on nuclear weapons will be seriously curtailed. Furthermore, the most difficult aspects of anti-missile defense, having to do with radar developments and rocketry, are entirely unaffected by the treaty."

"That two allegedly peace loving nations arm themselves with enough nuclear weapons to destroy each other and indeed the whole world is, to say the least, bizarre. Unless we are really convinced that war is inevitable, or that it will come unless we have completely overwhelming military superiority, we must seize this opportunity to take a first, tentative step toward sanity."

The risks are minimal. The possible benefits are enormous. We strongly urge the ratifica-

SEVEN TO ONE IN FAVOR: Senator Harrison A. Williams of New Jersey looks at some of the answers to his poll of New Jersey residents on the subject of the nuclear test ban treaty with Russia. The first 1,200 replies showed a seven-to-one approval of the proposal.

Obituaries

Clifford D. Quirk, 70, died August 26 at his home, 24 Haslet Avenue. For 35 years, he combined responsibilities in Princeton University's department of grounds and buildings with the private practice of architecture.

Mr. Quirk joined the University in 1926 and served as liaison man for most of the new construction on campus until his retirement in 1961.

Active in the community, he was a member of the Township Board of Adjustment, Re-employment Chairman of the Selective Service Board and secretary of the Township Board. He was responsible for the writing of the Borough's building code.

During World War II, Mr. Quirk served with Princeton's reserve police force. He was at one time president of the Trenton Cornell Club, a member of Post 76 and Mercer County Commander of the American Legion.

Born in Brooktondale, N. Y., he entered Cornell University in 1914, left to serve as a sergeant in the 465th Aero Squadron, World War I, and returned to receive his bachelor's degree in architecture from Cornell in 1920. For three years he served as an architectural draftsman for Cornell and as clerk of the works for Day and Klander, Philadelphia architecs. Transferred to Princeton in the same capacity by Day and Klander in 1923, he joined the University staff three years later.

Surviving are his wife, the former Nellie Buck, a daughter, Mrs. Robert Lornale, and two sons, Elwyn and Daniel.

The funeral service was held at 2 o.m. this Wednesday in the University Chapel, the Rev. Dr. Donald M. Meisel of First Presbyterian Church officiating.

Harold B. Brettnall, private investigator and father of William B. Brettnall, 182 Hickory Court, an executive of the Educational Testing Service, died this past Friday in Connecticut. In addition to his son, whose wife, Katharine H. Brettnall, is Assistant to the Editor, TOWN TOPICS, Mr. Brettnall is survived by his widow and two grandchildren. The funeral service was held Tuesday afternoon in Newtown, Conn.

Mrs. Marby B. Hadjes, 59, formerly of 209 Moore Street, died August 24 in Chicago, Ill., after a long illness. She was the widow of Anestis P. Hadjes.

Born in Greece, Mrs. Hadjes is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Robert D. Daubenspeck of Winnetka, Ill., with whom she lived, two brothers, Angelo Brussaly of Montclair and Mammel Brussaly of New York City; two sisters, Mrs. Nicholas Dertozos of Princeton and Mrs. George Kalfas of Allentown, Pa., and two grandchildren.

The funeral service was held at St. George Greek Orthodox Church, Trenton, the Rev. George S. Stephanides officiating. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery, under the direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

George Sumter Schreyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Schreyer of 15 Haslet Avenue, died August 15 in New York City.

An interior designer, Mr.

Schreyer was a graduate of the same capacity by Day and Klander in 1923, he joined the University staff three years later.

The funeral service was held at St. James Episcopal Church, New York City, the Rev. Dr. Hill, assistant rector, officiating. Burial services were held August 19 at Sunset Hill Cemetery, Christiansburg, Va.

Harry E. Wood of 175 Jefferson Road, died August 24 in Princeton Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Edith M. Wood.

Mr. Wood was assistant secretary-treasurer of Educational and Institutional Cooperative Inc. and was the director of purchases for Rutgers University for 13 years. A native of Trenton, he was an elder of Second Presbyterian Church and a member of the Union Club of New Brunswick.

Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Flora W. Elliott of Buckhannon, W. Va.; two sisters, Mrs. Leroy Smith and Mrs. Anna Marriott of Willow Grove, Pa., and two brothers, Howard G. Wood of Princeton and William Wood of Trenton.

The funeral service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home, the Rev. William L. Tucker and the Rev. F. Hugh Liffiton of Second Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be sent to the Mercer County Heart Association.

enrollment, more than 1,120 graduate students will be pursuing their advanced work at Princeton. In addition, another 80 special students and scholars will be coming to the Graduate School for one or more years of advanced work.

Much of the enrollment increase is attributable to the opening of new fields of graduate study at Princeton, including Astrophysical Sciences, East Asian Area studies, and programs in Linguistics and Comparative Literature.

Capacities Over-Taxed. With the completion of the new dormitories at the Graduate College scheduled for next month, the accommodations for single students will be nearly doubled. "But today's pressures for graduate education and the responding enrollment have already exceeded the capacity of the new buildings," the University reports.

In the case of married men, all 252 units of the Harrison Street Project have now been reserved whereas the need is substantially greater than this. Mr. Frederick G. Roberts, Assistant to the Dean of the Graduate School, estimates that "64 married students and a somewhat greater number of single students have not yet found a place to live."

Mr. Roberts urges persons who have rooms or apartments to contact the University's Real Estate Office at 92-A Nassau Street and give a brief description of the size, location and rental of the premises. The University, Mr. Roberts said, "cannot act as an agent, but will serve as a clearing-house for the information of

The Rev. William Hallock Johnson, 98, of the Class of 1888 has been designated as Princeton University's oldest living alumnus by the Alumni Council.

The sixth consecutive clergyman to hold the post, he succeeds the Rev. William H. Hudnut, Class of 1886, who died August 16 in Glens Falls, N.Y., at the age of 98.

Dr. Johnson, president emeritus of Lincoln University, for many years made his home in Princeton and is now a resident of Cooperstown, N.Y.

Born December 3, 1865 in New York City, he was graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1897. He joined the Lincoln faculty in 1903 as a professor of Greek and New Testament Literature, after teaching at Centre College and Danville Theological Seminary. His ten years as Lincoln's president (from 1926 to 1936) climaxed service of a third of a century at the noted Negro college.

In 1935, Princeton awarded him an honorary degree of doctor of divinity. His three brothers, two sons and one of his grandsons are graduates of the university; two other grandsons are now undergraduates at Princeton.

Professor of Chemistry at Princeton University, has left for a three-week visit to the Soviet Union during which he will give a series of lectures to Soviet academic audiences.

While in Russia—as an exchange Professor of the National Academy of Science of the U.S. to the Soviet Academy of Science—Turkevich will lecture on his work in catalysis at the Institutes of the Soviet Academy and at Moscow University. He will also speak before university audiences at Leningrad, Tashkent in Soviet Central Asia, and Novosibirsk, the Soviets' new "science city" in Siberia.

Accompanying Turkevich will be his wife, Professor of Russian Literature at Rutgers University, who will also give a series of lectures in the Soviet Union.

Fifth Trip. This will be the fifth trip to the Soviet Union in the last six years for the Russian-speaking native of Minneapolis, and son of the Primate of the Russian Orthodox Church in the United States.

On the occasion of his last two visits to Russia—in the summers of 1960 and 1961—Turkevich served as science attache of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. In 1959 he was Science Representative at the U.S. Exhibit in Moscow lecturing for forty days on U.S. science to over 40,000 Soviet citizens, including Khrushchev, Mikoyan and Gromyko.

Turkevich has made the present state of Russian science one of his areas of special interest and has warned this country of the effectiveness of many Russian scientists. It was on his suggestion that the "pool for Russian scientific translations" was established at the Brookhaven National Laboratory.

In 1959, he published (with his wife) Russian for the Scientist, a work on Russian technical language. This September he will publish his Soviet Men of Science, a biography of 550 living Soviet scientists, done under the auspices of the National Science Foundation.

of it, the shift from resolutions to marching, is from involved here. But the activism within the Negro leadership itself.

"The Montgomery boycott, the sit-ins and Freedom Rides all forced the issue—and the churches responded. This is a protest against injustices which have stayed for a very long time."

Or, as Mr Phillips put it, "Religion is prominently present where it has not been in past upsurges."

The Rev Dr Tucker said, "The church has finally awakened to the tremendous need of the Negroes of this country. It is deeply interested in the objectives of the march. The church has a tremendous stake in it—and the clergy can make it peaceful."

"This march is a chance to bear witness, as a Christian," said Mrs Harbison.

Young People, "Much of the leadership," Professor Diamond said, "is coming from the Negro young people. Martin Luther King was 27 when he led the Montgomery boycott. The shift is to a greater degree of militancy."

Mr. Phillips commented that a number of the youth of both races are motivated by idealism, a need to do something for others. Also, he said, they feel a need to off-set their general life, which is a fairly "hedonistic existence." Many jobless youths are drawn to the march, while their elders are staying out of it because of fear of community ill-will or job jeopardy.

Summertime is always a danger time, he said. Much of the impetus to demonstrate will simmer down after summer. Employment will pick up, the kids will go back to school and college.

To this, Professor Livermore added, "There's the familiar observation that the young people are more interested than the old."

That may not necessarily be true in Princeton, but there were many young marchers in the six buses. Mrs. Harbison's daughter, Meg, was one. So was Barbara Perkins, visiting with the Harbisons before returning to Ithaca, where her father, former Princeton resident James Perkins, is now president of Cornell.

Gladys Irish, daughter of Sumner Irish of 120 McCosh Circle was another. So were two young Quaker sisters, Linda and Gale Blattenberger, and a young Presbyterian, Linda Wagoner, whose father is the Presbyterian minister, the Rev. Walter Wagoner.

"Young people are finding in this an issue through which they can express their idealism and their sense that the world must, somehow, be made better," commented Mrs. Harbison.

Awareness. One comment was made that the bulk of the Negro marchers were generally uniformed—"just as a soldier is vague about 'why we are at war.'"

To this, Professor Diamond said, "The people may not be aware of all the commas and clauses, but they are aware that the proposed legislation will rectify injustices."

Civil Rights, as defined by Mr. Phillips, means equal socio-economic and educational opportunities. When these factors are not equal, he said, it adds up to a great social disorganization.

The purpose of the march is to dramatize the fact that the Negro has had his fill of gradualism. "The march from one memorial to another of our nation, the prayers and singing, will give vast publicity to their hopes and needs," said Dr. Tucker.

These social, economic and educational opportunities are the chief concern of one Princeton resident who deliberately refrained from going on the march.

"I wish," he said, "that these 250 Princeton citizens, instead of marching, would get out in this town and spend their energies working for better job training for Negroes, and open, free employment opportunities for Negroes in every business establishment in Princeton, and open-covenant housing. These are the areas where Princeton people ought to 'stand up and be counted.'"

Several marchers observed that perhaps the 250 would indeed be inspired by their participation to work for concrete results in Princeton when they returned.

The Princeton Association for Human Rights expressed similar hope in a form sent out to each marcher with instructions on how to proceed.

"All activities will be carried out as a group, partly as a practical safeguard . . . partly as an expression of the concern of the community from which we come, and partly that we may come to know each other better and so may more effectively work together in the future in Princeton."

BUSINESS In Princeton

25 YEARS OF QUESTIONS

Benson & Benson Celebrates. A company picnic at the home of Lawrence E. Benson, co-founder and president, served last week to mark the silver anniversary of Benson & Benson, Inc., one of the country's oldest market research firms.

Founded in August, 1938, by Mr. Benson and the late Edward G. Benson (no relation), the firm maintained its first offices in the old Bickford Building on Nassau Street, site of the present Woolworth Store. In 1946, the company moved to the Benson Building on Witherspoon Street, purchasing the property in 1955.

At the time Benson & Benson was founded, both partners were associated with Dr. George Gallup and the American Institute of Public Opinion, and Lawrence Benson continued his association with the Gallup Poll until 1952.

"My association with the 'dean' of public opinion researchers, Dr. George Gallup, was not only exciting but a most rewarding experience which has been invaluable in the operation of my own organization," Mr. Benson said this week.

At present, Benson & Benson employs 35 professional and clerical workers in Princeton, and about 950 part-time interviewers scattered over the country. The firm does market research in consumer and industrial goods and conducts studies for radio and television, newspapers and magazines, political organizations, banks, advertising agencies and other business organizations.

Gerald A. Bramwell, vice-president, has been with the firm since it was founded. Irving Van Zandt, Jr., vice-president, joined the organization in 1946.

Princeton's first AM radio station, WHWH, goes on the air next month, Betty Gates (Mrs. Frederick W. Gates), of State Road, will conduct one of the station's show-case programs, "Merry Go 'Round".

"Merry Go 'Round" will be in a specially designed format, a one-hour program with music, light features and interviews, many with Princetonians. It will be on the air at 1350 kilocycles from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m., Monday through Friday, according to WHWH station manager Dave Moss.

Betty Gates has had much experience in radio with the Mutual, CBS, and NBC affiliates in Boston and with WOR in New York. In addition to her daily program, "Women in the News", for WOR, she was formerly director of the Modern School of Speech and Drama on Long Island.

Since the Gateses moved to Princeton nine years ago (Mr. Gates is a member of the Princeton University Class of 1935), Betty has been extremely active in community affairs. She has been director of the "Toddler's School" at the YW-YMCA for many years. She also has assisted in the staging of benefit programs for local chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

In addition to the Betty Gates program, WHWH has announced that it has scheduled a luncheon interview program to originate from the Nassau Inn. This program will be mc'd by Barry Frazier, a recent addition to the station's staff, who previously has done newspaper work and has written a number of articles for national publications.

Another service planned by WHWH is a program of financial news. This will be aired direct from the Princeton office of Clark, Dodge & Co., investment brokers at 4 Nassau Street.

Newly appointed WHWH traffic manager is Miss Helen Kossakowski, of Trenton, Additional station personnel will be reporting within the next week.

All engineering tests have been completed by the technical staff under the direction of Arthur A. Silver, chief engineer. According to Mr. Silver, WHWH's engineering consultants are filing their final reports with the Federal Communications Commission this

It's New To Us

Here is a bow-backed sofa with "crewel" upholstery and clean mahogany legs. A matching wing chair has gracefully undulating wings and arms with an almost feminine charm. Another wing is formal and more masculine with a single curving wing line, flatter arms, and the Queen Anne touch.

The Queen Anne Hite appears again in a formal high-back side chair without arms. One version is completely upholstered except for the legs. Another has an exposed mahogany back with broad, single panel.

A table desk, a round extension table and break-fronts in various styles are in James River, too. Stop at Nassau Interiors and look at the catalogue and the examples you'll find on the display floor.

MY TURN FOR A COAT

They're Loden 'em Up. Loden looks like an enduring shade. It's been around for many seasons now, and each year it turns up looking as new and ready as the first season it appeared among us.

The current example is in the sub-teen coat department at Bambergers, buttoned snugly to the throat with stand-up collar and lined with a blanket plaid that repeats in a wool scarf. The color crops up again in a cropped car coat ($131) with orlon pile lining, white knit collar and white knit turn-the cuff.

For a Sunday change, buy the $35 basketweave wool coat in bright, bright red with leopard collar, or a prim Chesterfield.

Like their elders, sub-teens are wearing jumpers. At Bambergers, there's a cranberry corduroy (these wales go 'round instead of up and down) with a gold and cranberry documentary blouse polished off with roll-over collar. French blue cotton has a low front sash tie and a window-pane checked top with short sleeves. For $9, you may have an "A" line shift in dark plaid for warm fall days. Cool fall days

What Did You Read in That Hammock?

James Bond and Fanny Hill make their first appearance on TOWN TOPICS' Best-Seller list this month, and they make quite a pair, quite a pair.

Summer reading for Princetonians on vacation or at home runs the range from serious biography to—well, let's say "17th century sociology." Here it is:

Fiction

"The Memoirs of a Woman of Pleasure," John Cleland. Usually referred to as "Fanny Hill." This 17th century novel has just been freed for sale in New York State by a court verdict. (Male's Book Shop)

"The Concubine," Norah Lofts. Historical fiction about Anne Boleyn and Henry VIII. (University Store)

"On Her Majesty's Secret Service," Ian Fleming. The latest James Bond adventure. (Princeton Book Mart)

Non-Fiction

"My Darling Clementine," Jack Fishman. The biography of the Churchill marriage. (Male's Book Shop)

"The Road to Huddersfield," James Morris. The story of the World Bank. (University Store)

"Francis Bacon," Catherine Drinker Bowen. (Princeton Book Mart)

We Recommend . . .

"A Portrait of Myself," Margaret Bourke-White. The photographer records her own dauntless image. (Male's Book Shop)

"The Road to Rumbelow," Carlos Baker. A first novel by Princeton University's professor-critic-biographer-poet. (University Store and Princeton Book Mart)

Go Comb Your Hat

It's so cold she ought to wear a hat to school but she'd rather be caught frozen to death than wear one?

Wait 'till she sees that stocking cap for girls at Bambergers! It's covered all over with a nice, wind-blown hairdo (nylon, we suppose) that makes it look exactly like a wig. In fact, it is a wig, when you come right down to it.

Bambergers shows the cap in the sub-teen and 7-14 departments on the second floor in black, anuburn, light brown and a vastly sophisticated platinum white. The hair-do is casual and looks like a mildly uncombed teen-ager. Dare you to put it up in rollers?

will bring out that two-piece wool suit in deep turquoise with popover top and "A" skirt.

Meanwhile, younger sister has been shopping in the adjoining 7-14 girls' section and has chosen a black corduroy sailor suit ($11) with box-pleated skirt on a chemise and a real sailor blouse with red tie. She also wants that cranberry double-breasted jumper for $9. The three-piecer is really only two because the grey pleated skirt is attached to the pin-striped shirt. The gay red vest has a life of its own, however.

Our favorite is a frock that looks like a coat dress, except that those brass buttons are just for show. It's an interesting melon red with cream colored collar and cuffs and low patch pockets.

Weather Winky is keeping the 7-14's warm with a wide-wale coat in royal, powder or olive with a furry white collar that looks like bunny. But Holland—yes, the Netherlands—beats them all with a suede cloth coat ($25) in a heavenly deep powder blue with quilted lining to keep you warm while you skate on a canal.

Bambergers has something that looks like wool Madras, if you can believe it. We found a culotte (very brief), an "A" skirt and a gold vest with "Madras" dicky. It's been matched with a gold cotton blouse and Shetland style sweater.

Accessories for girls this fall begin with a calfskin handbag (well, it looks like calfskin) in brown or black and white hide with the fur still on a stubby little satchel with a handle. Then there's a terribly slim and elegant alligator bag—for Sunday school.

Just for fun, on rainy Saturdays, Bambergers offers a photograph album bound in turquoise burlap emblazoned with a felt doll's face and yellow yarn pigtales. A pin-up board, a pencil holder and a letter holder all match. Almost enough to make a girl keep her desk neat.

HUN'S ASSISTANT HEADMASTER: Edison C. Sickman, formerly Hun's Director of Admissions and a member of the Department of Mathematics, has been named Assistant Headmaster. In announcing Sickman's new assignment, Headmaster Paul R. Chesebro pointed out that the Ohio-born Sickman, an alumnus of the University of Dayton and Columbia University, was formerly President and Headmaster of Lakemont Academy, Lakemont, N. Y.

lie Relations Research and Education Inc., the arranging of the papers is being done by Prof. Ray E. Hiebert, Chairman of the Department of Journalism and Public Relations at American University, and an authority on Ivy Lee. A biography of Lee by Professor Hiebert will be published this spring.

Ivy Lee devoted much of his career interpreting big business to the public at a time when big business was entertaining a "public-be-damned" attitude. During the early decades of the 20th century, he advised many of the great "captains of industry" that it was time to change their policies, time to bring them in line with the changing currents of public opinion. In so doing, Prof. Hiebert notes, Mr. Lee "helped to change the whole nature of American capitalism."

His basic philosophy — a novel one in that era of ballyhoo — was to tell the truth about his client and his client's products. It was Mr. Lee, along with Otto Kahn, who advised the Rockefellers to finance the famous Center in New York City that bears their name — urging it as a way to restore public confidence in the depression-hit economy.

A list of his clients would read like a Who's Who of American big business. In addition to Rockefeller, there were Chrysler, the Pennsylvania Railroad, Bethlehem Steel and his own alma mater where he worked for the Princeton Fund.

CITIZENS ARE RALLYING

For Goldwater In '64. The formation of the Mercer County chapter of the New Jersey Goldwater Association has been announced by Lawrence Township Committeeman Philip M. McHugh. The state-wide group is affiliated with the National Draft Goldwater Committee, dedicated to obtaining the Republican presidential nomination for Senator Barry Goldwater.

An organizational meeting held last week was addressed by Robert Berglund, Burlington County Republican candidate for Assembly, and Don Jaekle, chairman of the Burlington County unit of the New Jersey Goldwater Association. The group, comprising representatives from five Mercer municipalities, met to lay the groundwork for a planned county-wide alliance of "all persons regardless of party leaning, who want Senator Goldwater to head the Republican ticket in 1964."

Mr. McHugh named several county Republicans as Goldwater supporters, among them Trenton attorney Anton Hollendonner, clubwoman Mrs. Coleda Mohline and Princeton executive John Kuser. Mr. Hollendonner and Mr. Kuser are former GOP candidates for the Assembly and Mrs. Mohline has been active in Lawrence Township and Mercer County Republican affairs. Other active Goldwater supporters identified by Mr. McHugh are Arthur McTighe and Mrs. Arthur Beddoe.

Mrs. Benton, a passenger in Dr. Loetscher's car, suffered multiple fractures but was off the critical list by Tuesday. Dr. Loetscher, listed in good condition, was expected to be released shortly.

Dr. Loetscher's Plymouth sedan was struck on the right side at 8:30 p.m. while crossing Route 69 going east on Ingleside Avenue in Hopewell Township. The driver of the other car was Charles Faherty, 18, of 113 West Prospect Street, Hopewell, who was proceeding north on Route 69 and released were Mr. Faherty's passenger, Sherilyn Vied, 15, of 1111 Palmer Lane, Ewing Township; and Hubert Rouse, 33, of Battle Creek, Mich., who was traveling in Dr. Loetscher's automobile.

Both cars were extensively damaged. State Police of the Hopewell Station, who investigated the accident, have made no charges.

FIVE ARE FINED
In Borough Court, five Princeton area motorists were fined Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. All pleaded guilty.
Walter C. Menand, 23, 140 Hodge Road, was fined $30 for speeding. For improper display of plates, Paul Hinds, 57, 227 John Street, and Richard Harris, Crescent Avenue, Rocky Hill, were each fined $10.
Bruce E. Ehart, 20, 60 Murray Place, paid $15 for a late inspection violation, while Davis M. Mather, 17, 46 Maple Street, was levied $10 for allowing a passenger to ride in an illegal manner.

At a special hearing before Magistrate Tams on Friday, William E. Gordon, 40, 117 Bayard Lane, was sentenced to spend 57 days in the Mercer County Workhouse for driving while on the revoked list. On a second charge—taking a car without the owner's permission—Magistrate Tams fined Mr. Gordon $100 and $5 costs. Unable to pay, Mr. Gordon will amortize the sentence in the Workhouse at the rate of $2 per day.

Mr. Gordon also ran afoul of criminal law. His wife, Mary Ann, charged him with threatening to kill her. At a preliminary hearing on Monday, Magistrate Tams referred the case to the Grand Jury.

PHS BACKFIELD STRONG

(First of three articles on the 1963 Princeton High School football team.)

Seven Lettermen Return. All four positions in the Princeton High School backfield this year are "go."

PHS coach Dick Wood is almost awash with returning backfield talent. Of 17 returning lettermen, seven perform in the backfield. This is two more than the total number of returning lettermen who greeted Wood last year, his first as head coach of the Little Tigers. In fact, not since the days of Jack Hawkins and company five years ago has a PHS coach been blessed with so much available experience at the start of the season.

Followers of the Blue and White last year will recognize the names of the seven returning backfield veterans: Paul Walstad, Art Brooks, Bill Aiken, Larry Madden, Jim Case, Rich Vomacka and Jim Beachell. Newcomers might do well to make a mental note of this septet, for they are the ones who are going to put the punch in the PHS single wing attack.

To the distress of those in the stands, the Little Tiger attack last fall had no punch at all. Against extremely rugged competition in 1962, PHS won two and lost six. On three occasions it was shut out. In its eight outings, the Blue and White scored just 11 touchdowns, seven of them registered in the two contests it won.

There were reasons for the poor showing, of course. The competition was, in truth, just plain rugged. Of the four schools outside Mercer County added to the schedule last year, schools which PHS met for the first time each case, Princeton lost all four.

"I knew they were all going to be tough," said Wood. "Still," he added, "I didn't expect some of them to be as tough as they were."

No Passing Ability. But the overriding reason for lack of a potent offense was the absence of even the semblance of a passing attack. Not until the final quarter of the final game against Hamilton, which PHS won 19-0, did the Little Tigers score through the air. It was their only aerial TD.

Once the opposition discovered that PHS couldn't pass and wasn't going to, it shifted into virtual eight-man lines with the safety men only a few steps behind. As a result, the Little Tiger backs spent all afternoon churning up a lot of dust but going nowhere. With no air attack, it was no contest as far as the 1962 Little Tigers were concerned.

It should come as no surprise, then, that high on Coach Wood's list of "musts" this fall is finding a passer who "can keep the defense honest." "If we can do that," he said, "we'll be okay." Wood also promises to come up with an attack which will be "a little bit faster and a little bit more deceptive" than last year.

Following are the leading candidates for the four backfield positions. None of the following are sophomores. Wood reported it was the coaching staff's philosophy to play the sophomores together as a unit, as much as possible.

Wingback. Among four contenders, 190-lb. Rich Vomacka is the number one man. Of the hard-running junior, Wood said that "he can block and he can run that ball." While possessing neither grace nor great speed in open field, Vomacka, Wood said, has a peculiar way of running which makes him very hard to bring down. Besides all this, he has a terrific amount of desire, according to Wood.

Close behind Vomacka—and his counter type—is Art Brooks. Small, wiry and extremely fast, Brooks has had the most experience in the position. He accounted for two of Princeton's 11 tallies last season.

Wood reported he plans to take advantage of Brooks' speed by using him a lot "on the fly." This is similar to the old, man-in-motion formation except that the back is running at full speed right from the beginning. On the fly, Brooks will be in position to receive a handoff, a pass or throw a block.

Behind the front line of Brooks and Vomacka are two aspiring juniors, Tower Hubble and Harvey Hammond. An end last year and potentially a fine receiver, Hubble has good size for the position coupled with much inherent athletic ability. If he has a liability, it would be his tendency not to take the sport seriously.

Although he only weighs about 150 pounds, Hammond was a fine tackler in limited action last year. "We feel he will develop into a good blocker this year as well," said Wood.

Quarterback. If interest and desire were the only criteria, Jim Beachell, the number one quarterback candidate, would be outstanding. To assure his being in shape, Jim has worked out all summer lifting weights.

Moreover, Wood predicts that Beachell will do a good job of running the club. He has some experience in the position for the past two years, Wood observed, "and I think he'll do a better job of selecting plays than we did last year."

Yet, with all this, quarterback is possibly the biggest question mark. Not for any lack of ability on Beachell's part but simply because Tom Reynolds, who held the position last season, was something of an iron man and played virtually every minute of every game. Consequently, what experience Beachell got was limited. In addition, there is less depth here than in the other backfield slots.

Waiting on the wings are juniors Lofton Henderson and Paul Shields. Henderson's academic brilliance translates into an equally fine football I. Q. but at 150 pounds he is somewhat small. As a sophomore on the jayvee team, according to bulk of the Little Tigers' power running.

Once again, a pair of juniors are vying for the right to start: Tom Fasanello and Bob Mooney. Both run well, according to Wood, Fasanello has a lot of ability but was hampered by an injury.

As a jayvee player, Mooney looked good both offensively and defensively. From his defensive halfback position, Mooney exhibited an ability to

...will be 300 years old in 1964!

Since that day in 1664 when John Lord Berkeley and Sir George Carteret obtained the Royal Patent for Nova Caesaria from the Duke of York, New Jersey has grown to a stature of high importance in the life of the nation. And next year the people of the state in varied and sundry fashion will celebrate the 300th anniversary of the granting of that patent which signalled the birth of our state.

Blest from the beginning with the God-given advantages of deep water havens for ocean shipping, New Jersey, through the adventuresome imagination of its people, was destined to be great.

During this next year of celebration we urge all the people of the state to reflect upon the history of New Jersey — what made it great; why it is still great; and how it will become even greater.

move fast and change direction with facility. He has a good pair of legs, said Wood.

Tailback. Unlike professional football and, to a certain extent college ball, where size can be decisive, a diminutive high school player can be a standout—if he has guts. Such a player is the number one candidate for tailback this year—Paul Walstad.

As a sophomore last year, the sheets listed Paul at 137 pounds and a shade over 5-7. But what determination! By never operating at less than 100 percent, by fighting for every single inch—and fighting hard—Walstad emerged as the team's leading scorer with four TDs. What's more, he was on the throwing end of the team's only scoring aerial. That Walstad can run is unquestioned. "But," as Wood remarked, "if he can work on his passing it would really help us out a lot."

As it stands now, the team's most successful passer is Jim Case. A natural athlete and a three-letter man as a sophomore—football, basketball and baseball—Case was too small to be an effective runner. But he's put on weight since and Wood is hopeful. Unfortunately, Case also qualifies as the squad's best pass receiver and as Wood pointed out, he can't play end and tailback at the same time.

Finally, to give Wood three lettermen at tailback—the key to the single wing attack—there's co-captain Larry Madden. His solid body complemented by a pair of powerful legs, Madden is a fine power runner. From his defensive safety position, he led the team in pass interceptions last fall. A shoulder injury shackled him to some degree in 1962, but Wood believes that Madden has fully recovered.

In summary, Wood said it was a better backfield than he had last year. "It's an experienced backfield which is going to mean an awful lot. If we can get enough passing to keep everybody honest, we'll do okay."

To make things easier, Wood reported he plans to simplify his pass patterns so that the passer need not practice as many moves or throw to as many places. By concentrating on throwing to just four or five spots, Wood hopes to be able to cover all pass possibilities, and, at the same time, to reduce the problem of providing pass protection.

About the running attack it will still emanate from the single wing. There will be a little more deception, a little faster ball handling, but the tested power plays will remain and to the spectator in the stands it will look the same. But it won't be quite the same to Dick Wood and his coaching staff. They are determined to improve on last year's record and they think they have the backfield this year that can do it.

Next Week — The Line

COACHING CHANGE MADE

In Princeton Football, Warren E. Harris, an assistant freshman football coach at Princeton, will serve under Dick Colman this fall as a member of the varsity staff.

Harris came here via Pennsylvania, where he worked under John Stiegman as end coach, and Rutgers, where he was an assistant in football and head coach of basketball. At Princeton, he also coaches jayvee basketball and serves as a scout in the sport.

ERC OUSTS ETS

From Softball Playoff, Behind the fine pitching of Jerry Pazdan, ERC (Western Electric) defeated a strong Educational Testing Service team twice last week to challenge EMR for the championship of the Princeton Business Softball League.

For the first four innings, the second and decisive game was scoreless. Then things began to pop. The two teams exchanged three and one-run rallies in the next two innings to reach the final frame deadlocked at 4-4.

Paced by the clutch hitting of Roger Cole, Ross Morrone and Bill Feireband, ERC scored the lead run and added two more for insurance for a 7-4 decision Pazdan won it and Jack Dilworth lost it.

Earlier in the week, Pazdan and Dilworth were locked in another hard-fought contest. For four and a half innings, Pazdan hurled hitless ball. Later the ETS batters began to solve Pazdan for a few hits but it was too late. ERC eked out a 5-4 victory. ERC's Bob Easton provided the margin when he connected for a homer.

EAGLE STANDOUT: One of the most colorful players in professional football, Tommy McDonald of the Philadelphia Eagles, will be on hand for the second Jaycee football classic between the Eagles and the New York Giants September 7 at Palmer Stadium. The former Oklahoma star last year was named to play in the Professional Bowl for the fifth successive year. Though the Eagles slipped badly in 1962, McDonald didn't. He placed fifth in the League in pass receptions (58), was third in yardage gained with 1146 and scored ten touchdowns to rank as one of the finest wingbacks in the National Football League.

Dr. Cretton Harris of Scott Avenue, Princeton Junction, Professor of Economics at Rider College, spoke to the Princeton Rotary Club at a recent luncheon at the Nassau Inn. Dr. Harris, who joined the Rider faculty in 1956 after teaching at Rutgers University and Texas Technological College, discussed "The Greatest Danger to our Freedom."

Nine Princeton area residents are among the 225 per-

Smith, Drake's Corner Road, and Lee Hymerling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hymerling, 297 Jefferson Road, attended the beginning sessions of the United States National Student Association Congress on the Indiana University campus. The USNSA brings together student leaders from the association's 387 member schools. Miss Smith represented the students of Columbia University and Mr. Hymerling those of the University of Pennsylvania.

Janet Lucia Stephan, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Frederick F. Stephan, 105 Fitz-Randolph Road, is a member of the Hood College Choir (Hood College, Frederick, Md.) which is currently "singing its way across Europe" on a month-long tour that started in London in mid-August.

Larry Bernard Weinstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Weinstein, 30 Mercer Street, will be a member of the 6th Grade at The Columbus Boy-Choir School, which will open its 24th year on Sunday, September 8th.

Miss Joan Yantz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Yantz of Belle Mead, has graduated from the Ann May School of Nursing in Neptune. Miss Yantz, who won an award at graduation for obtaining the second highest scholastic average, will be employed as a staff nurse at Princeton Hospital in September.

WINNER AND NEW CHAMPION: Marty Hines, victorious over Jeff Bullock in the final round, carried off the crown in the Princeton YMCA Boys Summer Ping Pong Tournament. Pictured here with the kingpin is John Springer, YMCA Physical Director, who supervised the 20-boy tourney held at Dorothea House, Avalon Place and John Street.

GOING BACK in Town Topics

FIVE YEARS AGO

August 28, 1958. A few weeks before, TOWN TOPICS had speculated that this "would be the busiest August ever." The prediction was being borne out.

As members of the Borough police force and citizens in general contemplated changes in the department with the news of Chief John H. Smith's retirement, the police had experienced their busiest two hours in a long time. Murder, attempted suicide and sudden death on the preceding Friday morning in 1958 had been the tragic cause.

Minutes after a Princeton resident had departed for work on the Friday before, his 18-year-old daughter was shot and killed by a 21-year-old intruder following a violent quarrel. The killer then turned the rifle on himself, wounding himself critically, because, as he told police: "I couldn't live without her."

Less than two hours later, Jorge H. Filo, 53, of Perth Amboy, was pronounced "dead on arrival" at Princeton Hospital, despite quick police efforts to revive him after he had suffered a heart attack. Filo was readying his floral car for a funeral ceremony in Princeton and discussing a recent heart attack with another funeral attendant when he fell to the ground suffering from a second, and fatal seizure.

In addition Borough Council had conducted an especially busy August meeting with new ordinances, new parking problems and new liquor permits crowding the agenda. Township Committee also had been through its busiest August session ever, mostly because of near filibustering on the subject of sidewalks for Valley Road.

And, on the sports front, action was almost as hot as the weather as three 1958 local pennant races came to a feverish climax.

In answer to the August 14, 1958, Question of the Week, "Do you think the American male is too domesticated?" said Samuel Schell, 129 Valley Road: "Yes."

His wife replied firmly: "I wouldn't have it any other way."

TEN YEARS AGO

August 27, 1953. Through the good offices of the Princeton Savings and Loan Association, then-Township Attorney Louis Gerber and the Veterans' Administration, George M. Durner Jr., Princeton's only native-born paraplegic veteran of World War II, now owned his home at 26 Stanley Avenue. After a five-year-old public campaign for funds had bogged down, the Savings and Loan had advanced the funds to finish the house with Mr. Gerber handling the myriad legal details.

One morning in mid-August, 1953, the mail brought from Washington a G. I. grant for the full amount of the mortgage. Mr. Durner, who had awakened one morning in a Nazi P. O. W. camp completely paralyzed from the waist down, was home at last—"free and clear."

The University Laundry, one of Princeton's older business concerns, had just announced plans to open a branch in the fast-building new Shopping Center and also made note of the fact that it had recently delivered the 10,000,000th shirt, buttons and all, to pass through its plant.

In August, 1953, things were still sour over in the Sourland Mountains just to the north of Princeton as the war waged by citizens against the establishment of a quarry and factory there increased in violence. Sample verbal projectile hurled by the embattled residents: "Deception, insincerity, influence and pressure have been the techniques of the powerful 3-M Company in trying to smash its way into this agricultural and residential community." Despite the heated opposition, 3-M won.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

August 27, 1948. Man of the Week in TOWN TOPICS's issue 15 years back was Prof. Joseph Brown, named as "one of this community's most compelling personalities, whose achievements as sculptor, teacher, coach and boxer prompted one sports columnist to describe him as the 'Princeton equivalent of the fabulous Leonardo da Vinci.'" Prof. Brown's continuing and fully-merited reputation in his various, and not usually homogeneous, fields of activity have, 15 years later, just about guaranteed him permanent tenure on the "Princeton's da Vinci" sobriquet. (See page 5)

Another Princetonian receiving kudos from his fellow townsmen in August 1948 was Van Buren Leigh, assistant cashier at the First National Bank. The reason? He had just completed 50 years of work in that one organization, a record seldom equaled and even less often surpassed in any business.

In buying carpets should they blend with colors of the wall, or should there be a contrast? These are large rooms with solid colors and white trim.

Color here is strictly a matter of taste. A blend of color or a contrast is up to the person who has to look at it.

Whichever appeals to the consumer is most important here.

PICK A BOOK—ANY BOOK: Readers are invited to choose from 10,000 paperback titles available at the University Store in the remodeled book department. Skyraiser shelves like these have replaced the old outmoded shelves in a large-scale urban renewal project that has occupied the University Store staff all summer. F. J. Worthington, shown here, is manager of the store. (Staff Photo) week and the FCC's permission to start broadcasting is expected soon after Labor Day.

WHWH is at present completing studio construction in the Houghton Building, 221 Witherspoon Street, including a main control room, production studio, a studio for news and interview programs, and offices. The transmitter building is located near Mount Rose in Hopewell Township.

Broadcasting on 1350 kilocycles with a power of 5,000 watts, WHWH will be the only such AM, full power station in the state south of Newark.

VOLUMES OF TITLES

In Remodeled Book Department. If you can't move sideways, move up. That's what they've done at the Princeton University Store to enlarge, enhance and enliven the book department.

"We needed more space for books and we needed wider aisles," explained F. J. Worthington, manager of the store. "The only way we could expand was up, so that's the way we went."

"Up" means the installation of almost two dozen six-foot high bookshelves, replacing ones that used to be four and one half feet. The new shelves are tall, but they are not massive, and they give almost a feeling of airiness with their backless structure and light wood end pieces. Shelves are only one-sixteenth inch thick.

The new shelves mean that the U. Store's paperback department has moved forward into the light of day and away from the rear of the store. And, with the additional new shelf space, the department is now able to carry 10,000 paperback titles, an increase of 40 percent over the old four-foot shelf days.

A Lot of Words. By adroit use of space in three dimensions, the department has also added more hard-cover titles, for an increase of 25 percent. In round figures, this means 14,000 hard-cover titles, making a total of 24,000 hardbacks and paperbacks for the whole store. This does not include text-books which live in an ivory tower of their own outside this department altogether.

The book department as a whole has been physically re-oriented so that it goes across the front of the store and is the dominant department, the first one you see as you enter, looking ahead and down to the lower level.

"This is as it should be," Mr. Worthington pointed out, "because after all, we are a university store and books should be our first line of business." "We also feel that we have achieved a 'book atmosphere' by our remodeling," Mr. Worthington continued, "aisles are more spacious for browsing, titles are easier to read. The department is easily accessible from either the University Place or the campus entrance."

To accommodate the new arrangement, Mr. Worthington has moved the athletic department to the rear corner near the campus entrance, the gift department to the middle and stationery-drafting supplies to the far left.

This is the first major shift inside the store since the present building was completed in 1957. Renovation have been in progress all summer and will be completed in about three weeks, in time for the opening of classes, Mr. Worthington said. James Dawson of New York was the architect.

MRS. WHELAN WINS AGAIN

In Springdale Tournament. Mrs. James J. Whelan proved again last week that she is, without doubt, the best women golfer in town by winning the women's championship at Springdale Golf Club for the 12th time in 13 seasons.

Starting in 1951, Mrs. Whelan won the event for the next 11 years in a row. Last year she did not enter the competition. But this year she again won the trophy, beating Mrs. James L. Wurga in the 36-hole final by a 5 and 4 margin.

crown in the Police Baseball League. It was their second such triumph in two years.

The Eagles made it tough. After the fireman had waltzed to an easy 11-5 victory in the opening game, the Eagles came back to eke out a 7-6 decision and force Monday's showdown tilt. To do it, the Eagles pushed across five big runs in the last inning. Some onstly Engine errors helped them along.

In the decisive third encounter, Engine No. 1 got off to an early lead when Mark Anderson singled home two runs. Pat McManimon, the team's leading hitter, chipped in with a single and a home run and the outcome of this one was never in doubt. The most damaging hit off Tim Rollings, the winning pitcher, was Henry Wilkinson's triple.

After the game, trophies were presented to Engine No. 1 for finishing first in regular season play and for capturing the playoff. Tim Rollings was awarded the trophy for the most outstanding player in the playoff series. All were presented by Eddie Donovan, Princeton University baseball coach.

News Of The CHURCHES

CHAPEL COMPLETED

Pastor To Move On. Four years ago, a handful of people met with the Rev. Dr. Jarvis S. Morris for worship services in the Cambridge School, Kendall Park.

This Sunday, the congregation of Community Presbyterian Church, now numbering 335 adults and 350 children in the Sunday School, will hold its final service in the education building constructed last year.

First services in the ultra-modern chapel just completed at Sand Hills and Cuyler Roads, will be held at 9:30 and 11 a.m. on Sunday, September 8. And with this behind him, the Rev. Dr. Morris has asked to be relieved of his duties on October 15 in order to begin organizing a new church in Franklin Township.

For his final sermon in the education building, Dr. Morris will speak on St. Paul's words in Corinthians I, "Labor Not In Vain." His topic on the 8th will be "The Beginning of Wisdom."

Person To Person

Cory S. Kommier

Talking about Labor Day, an acquaintance said, "When Labor Day comes around each year it's not a bad idea to remember that only in the free world can such a holiday be a celebration, for Labor has little to celebrate behind the iron curtain. There, the people, men, women, and children, work where, when and how they are ordered, and they had better not even whisper any complaint about anything." He added, "You know, all history proves that Labor has fared worse under every society ever conceived than under competitive enterprise. And the 'Utopia' promised by the Russian Revolutionists turned into a 'Utopia' where Unionism is outlawed, and it is treason just to voice an opinion contrary to the dictates of the Kremlin." "If we will but reflect on these facts," he said, "it will give each of us good reason first of all, to offer a prayer of thankfulness, regardless of the imperfections of our own society, and second, to avow our allegiance to our country and the best way of life ever conceived by man." (He stated it too well for us to want to add any comment of our own, excepting, A Happy and SAFE Labor Day to you!) Kammler Buick - Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222.

REPAIRS TO THE TDWER of Trinity Episcopal Church by Matthews Construction Company mark the first step in the restoration of the building, ravaged in an all-day fire on February 13. In a few weeks, the vestry will present two plans for a complete reconstruction program. Their initial proposal, entailing nearly three-quarters of a million dollars, drew strong dissent from the parish last June.

CHIP SHOT OFF THE OLD BLOCK

The real fun of a home is in doing things with your family. And the simple fact is that you can do more things together at Pike Brook Village because you get more "home" here... inside and out.

Outside, you have a full acre (42,000 sq. ft.) for your leisure fun: practicing putting, growing a garden, barbecuing weenies, shooting basketballs, throwing curves. You've got room to do all this and more.

Inside, you get almost 2,000 sq. ft. of living space. That includes a playroom for rainy day fun, separate bedroom for the kids, at least 2 baths to eliminate morning traffic jams, full basements and 2-car garages to hold all the toys and tools you can have.

After you've taught him (or he taught you) how to putt properly, you could try out your new skill at the adjacent Pike Brook Country Club. If you favor some other sport, you're in luck, too. A huge recreation area is right on the property.

Any wonder Pike Brook is New Jersey's fore-most value?

WE NOMINATE

Elizabeth Heon Cawley and Robert Ralston Cawley, husband and wife and Professors both, who this week—the Lubon Day Weekend and, then, to matters academic—highlighted "male news" in New Jersey with their simultaneous appointment as Visiting Professors of English in the Faculty of Eastman, and even now, riding, Rider College. At a time in this nation's development, when its human resources, from the point of view of teaching, are being stretched to the snapping-point, it is strengthening to know, in the words of one observer, that "two seasoned scholars have returned to the jersey hold."

Formerly a school history teacher, college professor and college dean, Mrs. Cawley, a 57-year old native of Clay City, Ill., ranks high among the most qualified Princetonians ever to have held the presidency of the Borough's Board of Education which, conservatively writing, means 1,000 added "work-hours" per year (see Topics of the Town). She has known secondary schools and colleges as teacher, parent and administrator; has established a solid reputation in her chosen fields of research; and has gained unusual insights into the functioning of both publicly and privately sustained educational institutions in seeking to raise the sights of the Borough School System.

It was in the 1930's in London, while qualifying for her Ph.D. and writing a dissertation subsequently published under the auspice of the American Historical Association, that she met her husband, now Professor Emeritus of English in Princeton University. An able musician and a devotee of painting, Mrs. Cawley, prior to her marriage, was Dean of Mary Baldwin College, 123-year old women's college in Staunton, Virginia. In 1952, following her first election to the Borough Board of Education, the Princeton University Press published her second major work, "The American Diaries of Richard Cobden," a project meeting financial support from the American Philosophical Society.

Internationally recognized as an authority on Milton, and particularly known for his work on "the influence of the so-called nation in English literature," the 76-year old Cawley retired from the University Faculty in 1962 and promptly accepted a new assignment in shaping the pilot program for the Ph.D. program in English within the burgeoning City University of New York. Cawley, twice chairman of his Princeton Department, had joined the Princeton Faculty in 1922 after World War I served with the Quartermaster Corps and after he had capped his doctoral studies at Harvard with advanced work in universities in England, France and Germany.

Cawley, long active in the Presbyterian Church and author of the stimulating "Brief History of the First Presbyterian Church of Princeton," has introduced generations of students to the influence of "travel" in the English literature of the Renaissance and has thereby succeeded in underscoring the gradual awakening of men's minds, both past and present, to foreign ideas and manners. As eager a mountaineer as he is an addict of Milton, Spenser and the 17th Century, his major publications include "Unpainted Waters," "The Voyagers and Elizabethan Drama," and "Milton and the Literature of Travel."

For their understanding of the challenges which must be confronted if the quality of American higher education is not to be diluted, for returning to the campus, albeit an unfamiliar one, with the enthusiasm associated with younger generations of class-goers, these two are TOWN TOPICS' nominees as
